BASEBALL WRITERS SELECT "INDIANS" AS THE BEST NAME TO APPLY TO THE FORMER NAPS

With the going of Nap Lajoie to the Athletics, a new name had to be selected for the Cleveland American league club. President Somers invited the Cleveland baseball writers to make the selection. The title of Indians was their choice, it having been one of the names applied to the old National league club of Cleveland many years ago.

The nickname, however, is but temporarily bestowed, as the club may so conduct itself during the present season as to earn some other cognomen which may be more appropriate. The choice of a name that would be significant just now was rather difficult with the club itself anchored in last place.

While picking a name for the Cleveland A. L. team, the committee also agreed that the Cleveland A. A. team owned too many names, and that while they were at it, it might be well to agree on just one name for the erstwhile Bearcats. Consequently, the other old nickname of the Cleveland National leaguers was adopted and henceforth all the local papers will call the A. A. club the Spiders.

So there you are—Indians and Spiders.

Cleveland Club Owner Files Affidavit Was Arranged at Which of Agreement to Let?

Garry Herrmann, Ban Johnson Assert Young Gilmore's Claim What They Now Call

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Charles W. Somers, manager of the Federal league baseball team, named or organized baseball fired at the Federal league with the new organization, which he said, that while in Chicago and in November, he was met by Charles G. Gilmore, and at that meeting the Federal league was formed with Charles F. Taft, of Cuba, not to tamper with any players an organized baseball club.

Somers' affidavit is only one of a score to the pending action charging organized anti-trust laws. The affidavit as a whole is a charge against the Federal league and charged its manager with doing some of its work.

The proposed terms of peace which planned, in the union of the Federal and an affiliate of John J. Linnin of the Boston World, owners of the Brooklyn Federals under which they would have purchased Charles Wreghman of the Chicago Federals Chicago Cubs.

Portions of the rules of the Federal league by Stephen Cusack, a former Federal league player, as a ten-day clause in the usual contract as a general annex to the Federal league.

The affidavit charges that the Federal league was organized for the purpose of the national game of the United States and that the Federal league was organized for the purpose of the national game of the United States and that the Federal league was organized for the purpose of the national game of the United States.

MIXED PICKLES

BY THE SECOND COOK

Winter League Champions Ready

With the winter league season nearly over, the Second Cook feels capable of an all American team also from the prominent members. The selections have been based upon the statistics that has achieved during the campaign, which has been one of the greatest since the discovery of not air during the war.

At the start of the season, it looked as though the Federal had the better of the campaign. Following an official statement by President Gilmore, in which he showed how the Federal made good on its promise. The Federal, Chief Bender, Eddie Hunk, and other players, were named as the champions.

C. A. C. OUTPLAYS ABERDEEN TEAM IN SECOND GAME

Contest Much Rougher Than Previous Contest Between Squads.

BY HENRY F. EDWARDS.
The Cleveland A. C. completely outplayed and outplayed Aberdeen in every way except in the goal-tending, last night, and as a result annexed a 5 to 2 victory. The score fails to reveal how the puck was kept in Aberdeen territory most of the time but the stops credited to the two goal-tenders do. Olnak having only 12, while Thebo, the Aberdeen phenom, had 26 to his credit, a total of 132 in four games for the broad shouldered Irishman from Ottawa.

The two A's have played in much better form than they did the previous evening and as a result, Aberdeen was kept on the defensive for the greater part of the game. The team work of the locals was much improved, but strange as it may seem, only one of the C. A. C. players was the result of combinations. This and again, the Clevelanders were down to two three or four abreast had made better shots only to have Thebo make their playing null and void.

But where Thebo lost out was in stopping the individual shots. For the most part, the Clevelanders were down to two three or four abreast had made better shots only to have Thebo make their playing null and void.
